

Blossom Capital: Nominate an inspiring female colleague to win a holiday!

As International Women's Day on March 8 approaches, what better way to show your appreciation for your favourite female colleague than nominating them to win a holiday?

Female-led VC fund Blossom Capital wants you to nominate your most inspiring female colleague and tell them about that person's most inspirational moments for a chance of winning them a dream holiday.

Each nominee will be entered into a prize draw to win free flights to a destination of their choice, courtesy of travel technology platform Duffel.

Women have reportedly felt the brunt of the pandemic, with multiple reports finding that not only are women taking on a bigger share of unpaid care and homeschooling, but their jobs are 1.8 times more vulnerable to the crisis because of existing gender inequalities.

Blossom Capital acknowledges the insightful reports and articles celebrating high-flying women in business, tech and beyond every International Women's Day, but this year wanted to celebrate women across all sectors and job roles to shine a light on the women in our lives that make a day-to-day difference.

Enter as many colleagues as you wish via this short four-question form on Blossom Capital's website. Five winners will be picked at random on International Women's Day on March 8.

Article by MADDYNESS UK